Superior Istanbul late afternoon & evening sites and awesome sunset!

Gourmet little bites & charming little places ( inc. Bohemian Istanbul district missed by all, but you! )

---

Mr & Mrs Freidman exploring the hidden gems of Istanbul to remain unknown to the average visitor with Oğuz Kösebalaban : A former journalist and a dedicated tour guide with over 20 year of experience, which will definitely be reflected to your own tour .

Evening visual tour of Istanbul with great introduction for the first timer, or the seasoned. Best way to grow your sense for Istanbul as a living city while paying homage to its renowned Ottoman, Roman , Byzantine monuments. Includes the Bohemian district with streets, buildings and cafés talking their stories.

Charming cities of the world are even more so by sunset and evening time; the monuments well lit up stand out and the city even gets more impressive!

Best baklava sampling ever in your life is also available( and yes, I am aware that this sentence is a bit too strong, so the memory of this baklava would be :) ; best of middle eastern cuisine well hidden in side streets can also be included; all according to your interests!

Itinerary:

This tour is just published, but turned into one of Oguz's most popular tours beloved by the participants with great experience of Istanbul as a living city and visual experience of its heritage. Walk through the old town, take street car to Spice Market area, walk Galata Bridge, take the funicular to Galata Tower, walk Istiklal Street.

"Down the hill from Taksim Square in new Town, a young artist, painter, musician, a rookie is struggling (once upon a time, also your guide Oguz :) Some will disappear, some will succeed and go up the very same hill that's the famous bohemian district of Istanbul.

Down the hill in one of the houses, a love story took place, immortalized by the Nobel literature prize winner

Orhan Pamuk, in his novel, "Museum of Innocence" . Yet, one of the houses of the lower part of the same hill is opened up as "The Museum of Innocence" with all the setting to the novel and the period items, lovable collectibles from 1970's Istanbul. " Oğuz
